Horn Fly Control

The season for fly control is approaching and therefore it becomes necessary to initiate control measures which usually require 3 to 4 applications during the summer months.

In controlling flies on beef cattle the cheapest material available is DDT, which will do an excellent job. A wheelbarrow spray or 3½ gallon garden sprayer will do an excellent job of control. Use a 50% wettable DDT powder at the rate of 8 pounds per 100 gallons of water or 6½ ounces in 5 gallons of water.

Penalty Rate: (on excess tobacco)

Penalties for producing tobacco in excess of farm quotas have recent'y been announced as follows:

Fire-cured—28c per pound
Flue-cured—40c per pound
Burley—44c per pound
Va. sun-cured—19c per pound.

Plant Bed Management

More than 90% of the tobacco crop has been set and excellent stands are common in most parts of the county. Now is the time when tobacco farmers might carry out a phase of tobacco plant bed management that will be of help next year.

As soon as all the plants have been drawn and a stand is insured, disc the remaining plants and sow the bed with peas or soybeans. No additional fertilizer is necessary, since there is sufficient residue from the amount applied to the bed early in the spring.

In early fall the peas or beans should be removed and the soil treated with chemicals to control weeds, the following year. This practice eliminates the necessity of having to get up a new plant bed every year.

Additional Silage

In travelling over the county, there are few stands of corn that would be considered excellent stands which means that corn planted for silage may not yield as much as was expected earlier in the spring. To take up the slack, it would probably pay many livestock owners to seed either sudan grass or pearl millet within the next few weeks.

Either of these grasses will produce 6 to 8 tons of silage per acre or 2 to 2½ tons of hay. For silage the grass should be cut when the heads begin to appear. They are seeded at the rate of 25 pounds per acre with 3 - 500 pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer.

Bluestone Helps Clear Scum From Ponds

Bluestone when used at the correct proportions will remove scum with no harmful effects on fish or livestock. Bluestone like any other chemical will lose its effectiveness after a short time and scum may reappear. If this happens, it will be necessary to repeat the treatment.

A safe dosage is 8 pounds Bluestone per million gallons of water, or 1 ounce per 8,000 gallons, or 1 level teaspoon per 1,500 gallons. It is important that these proportions be followed carefully to avoid injury to fish and livestock using the pond.

Bluestone can be secured in what is known as a "snow form." The correct amount of this type material may be placed in a sack and dragged through the water by means of a boat until all material has dissolved.

Clipping for Top Pastures

Mow pastures early this month to remove old plant growth which animals have refused, and to help control early-season weeds.

Removing the refused portions of forage plants and weeds gives the legumes in the pasture a better chance to grow. Clipping before seed has set also encourages grass growth and results in a higher quality feed for the animals.

It is important to prevent grasses and weeds from shading out ladino clover these next few weeks. Ladino-grass pastures in which much of the grass has headed out should be clipped to prevent crowding the ladino. If grazing animals are left on the pastures a few days after clipping, they will eat part of the forage they refused before.

Ladino-grass pastures cut for hay or silage should be allowed to recover to a height of at least six inches before grazing.

Bluegras pastures should be mowed after they have headed out, but before the seed sets, to encourage growth of white clover in the mixture. Clipping at this stage of growth will also result in additional grass growth later in the season.

Minimum Benefit This Year in Soil Bank

As the Soil Bank program gets under way in Appomattox County, County Agent Jim Smith says, the acreage reserve features of the plan will be of most concern to farmers.

Those eligible under the program may earn payments in connection with wheat, tobacco and cotton. Earnings will be based on a reduction in crop acreage below the farm's established allotment.

Other features of the program will be possible of development in 1957, but the current season is too far advanced for them to be used in 1956. County committeemen are busy now establishing yield figures so that farmers can learn just what to expect from the program.

A series of meetings for various agricultural agency representatives —county committeemen, Extension workers, and others,—will be held June 26, in Lynchburg. Meanwhile details of the program are being forwarded to the counties as rapidly as possible.

In designating acreage for reserve, a farmer must use acres that (1) are representative of the land used for the crop, (2) give an acreage harvested less than the farm allotment, and (3) will not be grazed, cut for hay, or cropped for the entire 1956 calendar year. He must also control noxious weeds on the reserved acreage.

Maximum and minimum acreages that can go into reserve have been set as follows:

For WHEAT, the maximum is the larger of half the wheat allotment or 50 acres. The minimum is the larger of 10 per cent of the allotment or 5 acres.

For TOBACCO, the maximum is the larger of half the allotment or 5 acres. The minimum is the larger of 10 per cent of the allotment or 1 acre.

For COTTON, the maximum is the larger of half the allotment or 10 acres. The minimum is the larger of 10 per cent of the allotment or 2 acres.

Secretary Benson advises that no farmer should go ahead with the Soil Bank action until he has entered into an agreement with his local ASC committee.

Although the Soil Bank program will have values for many farmers, definite procedures will be necessary, one of the main requirements being an agreement between the farmer and his local County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

When a farmer has qualified by putting required acreages of crops under reserve, he can earn payments on such acreage which will be determined by multiplying a base unit "rate" by a yield factor to be determined by the local committee.

National average rates for the 1956 program are:

Wheat—$1.20 per bushel.

Tobacco—

Flue-cured, types 11-14 — 18 cents per pound.

Burley, type 31— 18 cents per pound.

Maryland, type 32 — 17 cents per pound.

Fire-cured, types 21-24— 13 cents per pound.

Va. Sun-cured, type 37— 12 cents per pound.

Cotton— 15 cents per pound.

Maximum payment on any tobacco acreage may not exceed 115 per cent of the national average yield multiplied by the base unit rate per pound. Maximum per acre payments are: flue-cured, $293; burley, $340; Maryland, $169; fire-cured, $198; Va. sun-cured, $160.

OUTSTANDING DAIRYMAN

Richard Krantz, (right) son of Mr. and Mrs. William Krantz, of Spout Spring, receives an FFA Foundation Medal in recognition of his accomplishments in dairy farming, which were judged tops for the year in the Appomattox Chapter. The award was presented by H. B. Pack, local vo-ag instructor. Young Krantz received additional recognition when W. C. Dudley, area supervisor of vocational agriculture, today announced that he had been designated 1955-'56 Star Dairy Farmer in the 15-county Southside Virginia Area. Richard will attend the State FFA Convention at Blacksburg next week, along with eight other members of the Robert E. Lee Chapter of Future Farmers of America.

Radio Hams Meet Here July 8

Up to 200 amateur radio operators, many with their families, from all sections of the United States will converge on Appomattox Sunday, July 8, for their first get-together. A big "Graveyard Net Picnic" and gabfest will be held all day at Holliday Lake.

There are many hundred amateur radio operators in the nation. They go by nickname, "Ham" operators. From 400 to 500 of them operate on 3885 megacycles, from 4 to 7 A. M. every day. This is known as the "graveyard net."

Every morning finds 40 to 50 of these "hams" on the air.

The idea for a meeting was promoted by Joe Flenliken, superintendent of the Transco Plant here at Appomattox. He has had radio as a hobby since 1923, became a licensed operator in 1952 and joined the "graveyard network" in March, 1955. His call is W4YTD. He has contacted others on the network, in all 48 states and Canada. For months he has been telling the charm of Appomattox, and so many reacted favorably, that it was suggested that they meet here and perhaps set up a permanent organization. That is just what is going to happen. Reservations for the get-together are already pouring in, and Flenkinen now has a "convention" on his hands! He believes that Appomattox can do the job, and would like to see the get-together made an annual affair.

Registration at Holliday Lake is to begin at 9 A. M., Sunday, July 8. At 12:30 there will be a picnic dinner, with chicken boxes available. A feature of the day will be an auction of "ham" radio gear, organization of the net-work club, and a general gabfest

Some of the visitors will come to Appomattox Friday and Saturday, the 6th and 7th. A housing problem may develop, but Flenliken says that Appomattox will help him find places for the visitors to stay. Local motor courts, the hotel, and some private homes have already been contacted. Flenliken will have his complete advance registration list within ten days, and then will line up the necessary accomodations.

This is the first thing of its kind undertaken, and everyone will be anxious for it to be a success.

Local 4-H Members Win Trips To National 4-H Club Congress

Blacksburg, June 20 — Southwest Virginia 4-H'ers scored heavily here tonight as announcement of state 4-H agriculture and home economics contests cantinued at the 53rd annual State 4-H Short Course.

Two of the winners named tonight come from Appomattox County — William D. Carson, entomology, and Patricia Alvis, gardening. Both will receive trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 25-29.

William D. Carson, Appomattox, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carson, is 18 years old and has been in 4-H club work for nine years.

Billy is lesser chief of county 4-H activities, and is also a State All-Star organization this year. He became a state 4-H All-Star in 1954.

In his entomology project Billy has carried insect identification as a project for 7 years and beekeeping for 4. Each year he has entered his insect collection in the Lynchburg 14-County Farm Show and has won first prize — the prizes amounting to more than $75.

He has exhibited his insect collection and given talks to the entire student body of all five schools in Appomattox County.

In addition to his 4-H work he is president of the S. C. A. in high school, business manager of the high school yearbook, and has been on six radio programs and three television programs. He is also sports reporter for his high school newspaper.

Patricia Ann Alvis, Appomattox, daughter of Mrs. Mildren Alvis, is 19 years old and has been in 4-H club work for ten years. She is a junior leader this year and has previously held office as president and secretary in her 4-H club. She was also reporter for the county council and honor club.

Patricia began her 4-H club work with a garden project and has continued this project thorugh the years. Her garden has been a help financially too. Her family has a bountiful supply of home-grown vegetables and she has earned approximately $207 in prizes. She has given a total of 68 demonstrations on gardening. Each year she displays a vegetable basket and single vegetable exhibit at the Lynchburg farm show and the five-county fair.

Through her garden project and contests she has won scholarships to the state short course for the past five years.

Patricia has completed a total of 18 projects including just about all the things a young woman would find helpful.

Tomorrow morning nominations and voting for Short Course officers for 1957 will get underway, and finals in several more state contests will be held. A feature of the evening program will be "Previews of Progress" presented through the courtesy of General Motors Corporation.
